Reach for my hand, I'll soar a - way in - to the dawn, oh,

10
I wish I could stay. Here in che - rished halls, in peace - full days I fear the edge of dawn kno - wing time be - trays. Day - light's

16

23
passed through co - lored glass, in this be - lo - ved place. Sil - ver

27
shines, the wo - rld dines, a smi - le on each face. As choice sur - rounds, come out of bounds and I can feel them brea - king free.

31

34
For just this mo - ment lost in time, I am fi - nally me. Yet still I hide, be - hind this mask that I have be - come.

39

45
(that I have be - come) My black - ened heart, scorched by flames

50

of force I can't run from. I look to you, like a red rose

58

see - king the sun no mat - ter where it goes. I long to stay, where the light dwells to guard a - gainst the cold that I know so well.

64
